Brian Wilson Mentorship Award Winners

Beth Anderson

The Santa Barbara Channels

Ms. Anderson has been co-producer and director of the live weekly program, THIRD WORLD NEWS REVIEW for more than 12 years. She trains new studio volunteers "entirely without ego" She also is a board member for the Santa Barbara Channels and has been involved as a leader in public access & respected by all. Ms Anderson has been nominated for the Brian Wilson Award by Hap Freund, Executive Director, The Santa Barbara Channels.

Ken Faulkner

El Rancho Adult School

Mr. Faulkner is a teacher and mentor of the video production class at El Rancho Adult School in Pico Rivera California. In addition to teaching he manages ECTV 98 Educational Community TV all with student volunteers. He works with students aged 17 to 72. He is appreciated by all who work with him for what he offers as a teacher and friend. Mr Faulkner has been nominated for the Brian Wilson Award by Jacqueline Taylor.

Mark Halfmoon

Community Television of Santa Cruz

Mr. Halfmoon is a government access facilitator for Santa Cruz Community TV. He teaches the TV production classes and works hard in a variety ways till each person in the class "gets it". His guidance and patience are only exceeded by his skill as a director. Mr. Halfmoon has been nominated for the Brian Wilson Award by Ariana Gossfeld.

Community Media Excellence Award

Gus Castellanos, City of Garden Grove
Community Media Excellence

The Santa Barbara Channels
Community Media Excellence

The Western Access Video Excellence Awards (WAVE)

recognize outstanding local programs that are produced for or by public, educational or government (PEG) access facilities and by local organization (LO) departments of cable systems. Awards are given to creative local productions that address community needs, develop diverse community participation in the production process, challenge conventional television formats, and move viewers to look at television in a different way. Although technical quality of videotape is considered in determining the finalists and winners, most of the judging criteria are based on content and creativity.

Judging the creative product of so many special and diverse individuals and organizations is an honor. Coordinators at WAVE 2006 judging sites expressed admiration for the entries viewed, and said it was often hard to judge among so many worthy productions.

Thanks to all of the judging sites and coordinators who made WAVE 2006 a success.
